

Moment of Decision

The SRI Group's approach to improving
Hazard Recognition Skills.

Moment of Decision

Module 1: Principles of Safety Excellence

The fundamental principles of safety excellence with relation to improved hazard recognition are discussed in this module.

Module 2: Why We Fail to Recognize Hazards

In this module participants will complete a series of individual and group exercises to more fully understand the reasons hazards often go un-noticed.

Module 3: Types of Hazards

While hazards differ from industry to industry, there exist core categories of hazards which many employees may experience throughout the course of a normal work day. In this session participants gain valuable understandings of how to spot hazards related to:

- Biology
- Body Mechanics
- Chemicals
- Thermal
- Electrical
- Mechanical
- Energy / Pressure

Module 4: Anticipate and Identify

If we think before we act we can often avoid many potentially dangerous situations. Here participants review the tested tools and techniques which can be used to anticipate and identify potential hazards.

SRI's Moment of Decision is a customizable curriculum which will dramatically improve participant's ability to anticipate, recognize, assess and mitigate work place hazards. This highly interactive seminar uses proven instruction techniques to ensure each attendee has improved ability to identify potentially hazardous situations and has acquired the tools and capability to avoid them. This one day, 8hour seminar can be condensed to the essentials desired by a client and can be completed within 4-hours.

The difference between an injury free work environment and a less than desirable injury rate often comes down to the ability of supervisors and employees to recognize hazardous conditions and situations and then take appropriate action.

Excellent hazard recognition skills are not innate. They must be developed in each and every employee. SRI's Moment of Decision seminar will provide your organization with the training, knowledge and skills necessary to ensure workplace hazards are effectively recognized, assessed and controlled.

Moment of Decision curriculum includes training in SRI's award winning Accident Projection Techniques™ (APT's). APT's is a hazard recognition tool which improves each employee's ability to identify and address hazards.

Module 5: Evaluate and Assess

In this module participants explore methods to evaluate the likelihood and potential severity present in various hazardous situations.

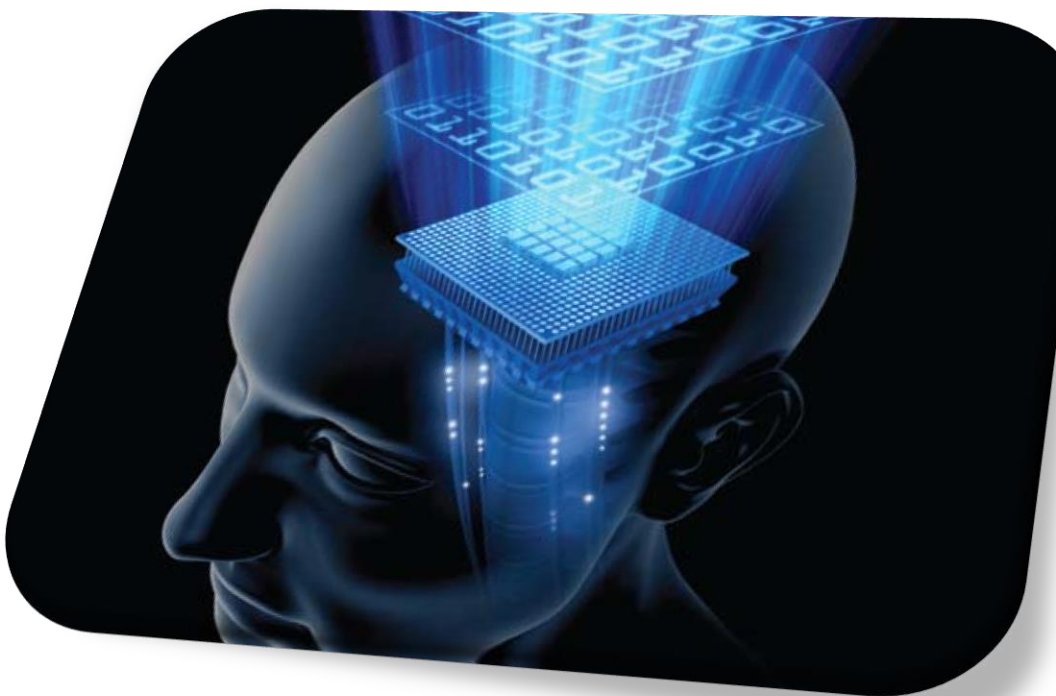

Participants complete a series of drills to demonstrate how seemingly minor hazards can lead to devastating consequences.

Module 6: Control and Mitigate

Once we have identified and assessed our hazards we must take necessary and sufficient action to safe guard ourselves, fellow employees and the work place. The basic techniques used to control and mitigate hazards from PPE to procedural and engineering controls are reviewed.

Module 7: Stewardship

SRI's award winning Accident Projection Techniques™ (APTs) helps employees demonstrate stewardship and eliminates hazards. APT's along with safety coaching tools are used to ensure all employees take a conscious and deliberate approach to work.

OTHER MODULES

In addition to SRI's Moment of Decision, our Hazard Recognition Seminar for General Industry, SRI also has hazard recognition training programs specifically for other industries and work environments:

- Construction
- Office
- Retail

ADDITIONAL SERVICES

The Structured Safety Process™ is a comprehensive systems based improvement initiative which has produced unrivaled results for more than 30 years.

Accident Projection Techniques™ (APTs)

APTs is an employee-based observation process which increases awareness, improves hazard recognition skills and enhances personal accountability.

TIPPS II Software

TIPPS II is a web-based observation and event-tracking software that provides the forum to maximize behavioral safety data and improve prevention planning.
